The North Presbyterian church, in this city has been thoroughly renovated during the past three weeks. The walls have been frescoed, and are a marked contrast to the former sombre and rusty appearance. The ladies of the church deserve great credit for their efforts in securing a new carpet, which, combined with the other improvements, make a pleasant and cheerful edifice. The usual morning services will be resumed next Sabbath, at 11 o'clock.

Carroll Institute. This association, in its dual character of educational and literary, has come to the front in a very marked manner during the past year or two, and is now one of the most fourishing Catholic societies of its purport in the country. Its educational labors consist, firstly, in the conducting of a free hight school, which has now on its rolls the names of more than sixty boys and young men. This benefit is extended to those of our youth who are unable for want of time to attend the day schools, and, as has been already proven, works most advantageously to all concerned. The second feature, though perhaps not strictly educational, may, it is presumed, with much propriety, be classed as such. It is the forwarding to the soldiers at our frontier posts such of the healthy current literature as may be collected from the institute files, and from any donations that our good citizens may feel dis-posed to give for the purpose. The project is certainly a worthy one, and, judging from the impetus it has at present gained, will prove

In a strictly literary point of view, the repu-tation of the society is firmly established, as is attested by the number of geutlemen who at-tend the regular Thursday evening meetings, which are held at its pleasant rooms, on G street. The gathering of last evening was un-usually large, and the literary efforts highly interesting. Mr. J. H. Bushnell opened with "Regulus to the Carthageniaus," followed by F. W. DIVORCE.

A Wife and Children Deserted. Yesterday John W. Frazee, as solicitor, filed a petition for Margaret A. Laughlin for divorce from Wm. H. C. Laughlin. The com plainant states that she is a resident of this city, and has been for more than three years, and the defendant resides, as she believes, near Cumberland, Md.; that they were married July 11, 1864, in Baltimare, by Rev. Thomas W. Mouroe, and resided in that city until Oc-tober, 1866, when they came here. They have two children. The petitioner shows that the defendant descried her more than two years ago, and has failed and refused to support herself or children, and at no time has she neglected to perform the duties of a wife. She prays divorce and to be given the exclusive control of the children.

ROUGH AND TUMBLE.

An Officer's Fight with Two Roughs. Officer Mitchell, of the Fourth precinct, had a hard battle with two roughs yesterday afternoon. Two drunken roughs, just released from the work-house, one a notorious negro thief named Frank Foremann, and the other an Irishman named Richard Murray, were naking themselves particularly obnoxious on K street, between Fifteenth and Sixteenth The negro made a grossly indecent exposure of his person, and officer Mitchell attempted to arrest him. The negro, who is a powerful man, resisted strongly, and tried to get a knife from his pocket. The officer knocked him down with his club. Murray then made fierce attack upon the officer, and the latter knocked him down once and broke his baton. Murray renewed the attack, and the officer struck him over the head with the butt of his struck him over the head with the butt of his revolver. In doing this the weapon was discharged, and as Murray fell come of the spectators thought that he was shot, and the story spread very rapidly. Murray was forced into a cart and secured by tying. In this way he was carried to the station-house without giving much more trouble. Foreman took advantage of Murray's attack on the officer to escape, although there were a number of cilizens standing by. The officer received several severe blows and kicks, but no serious injuries. Murray's scalp was cut by the blow

B. H. WARNER'S NEW BUILDING An Establishment with the Finest Real Estate Offices in the Country.

A resident of a city takes natural pride in its ornamentation and solidity, as well as in its business thrift, and for this reason the host of friends and admirers of Mr. B. H. Warner, the well-known real estate broker, heartily congratulated him yesterday as he took possession of his elegant business structure on F street, where he will in the future carry on his extensive and rapidly-increasing business. As regards the building, it may be said that, for architectural beauty and spaciousness, it excels all other business establishments in the city, and Washington can now claim the most complete and elegant real estate office in the country. The building was erected to give increased facilities to Mr. Warner's business, and we prophesy for him continued success in his popular and widely-extending business transfer. ness transac Great credit is due to the skill of the follow

CENTENNIAL EXHIBITS.

A Handsome Hearse and Carriages. At this time, when business of all descrip-tions is at a standstill, with indications of turning to a decline, it is a source of satisfaction to find tradesmen who do not gather despondency from ominous dark clouds o'erhanging mercantile circles and trade centres, but both by their voice and action give evidence of their belief that this temporary embarrasement will soon vanish, and business resume its usual vigor and activity. Such a course inspires the timid, while those not possessing more courageous spirits are induced to take hope, enter again into trade and strive to revive a busy life, thereby furnishing an existence for themselves and providing timely succor for many deserving relief, and who are only too willing to accept the opportunity to secure employment. A few promisent business men can accomplish much in bolstering up their calling, and permitting trade generally from receiving a depression that too often hastens

It was somewhat difficult to become suited in the style of ve-hicle, but his fancy was satisfied at a time when least expected to be. At the Centennial grounds he came upon the exhibit of Messra. These include the dove carrying the olive-branch, the smith of reasons and the contraction of the state of the contraction of the smith of the branch, "the spirit of peace and love," the anchor of hope, the cross and crown, the Maitese cross, shield, sword and flag, and other smaller emblems. Surmounting the roo of the hearse are six gold-plated urns, covered with a silver-plated drapery, and in the centre is a female figure, 18 inches high, clasping a golden cross with her left hand, while her right orefinger is pointed upwards. An elegantly-trimmed and fringed black hammer-cloth forms the driver's seat, which has a fine silver amp at either side. The interior is of rose bed, with rollers set sufficiently above it prevent a casket from striking the gold-plate bands and strips that extend lengthwise the hearse. An allegorical gold and silver sun's ray forms the ceiling, in the centre of which rests the emblematic "all-seeing eye." National Theatre "Married in Haste" is a comedy built ou of the fabric of a beautiful story of domestic life. The play is full of beautiful pictures and striking situations, and the simple stor great. The characters are artistically drawn and there is an air of reality about every thing and an absence of anything like im probability. One scene, which is rather out of the current of the story, but gives a truth ful picture of an experience which every artist can appreciate, is noticeable. Mr Buffier is a self-elected and everglassed are critic, fault-finding, superficial, hypercriti-cal, full of plaitudes, a bear in the art market. cal, full of plalitudes, a bear in the art market.

Mr. Mumchance, a wealthy cockeey, who styles himself "a h'art patron," is emraptured by Buffler's gilb tongue and empty disquisitions upon art, and is giad to be guided by him in making his purchases. In the capacity of critic and patron they visit the studio of Augustus and Ethel. Buffler underrates everything, and Mumchance echoes Buffler and makes a free but unconscious display of his own ignorance. Augustus, made irritable by bad luck, finds the pair in his studio, listens awhile with contempt to Buffler's platitudes, and then rudely takes a picture which Buffler had removed from an easel out of his hands and informs the visitors that none of the

Ethel is grieved, and reproaches Augustus for Etbel is grieved, and reproaches Augustus for his rudeness and the probable loss of a customer. The characters of Buffler and Mumchance are so well drawn, and the artist's veration so well explained, that the truth of the picture is immediately recognized. The play is added much by its excellent mounting. The caste could not be improved. Those who have not seen the pretty little comedy should take advantage of the remaining performances. English Comic Opera.

Mrs. Oates and her brilliant company, who are announced to appear in "Madame Angot" at the National theatre next Monday, rece the following deserved praise from one of the Baltimore press:

"We venture to say that Lecocy's brilliant comic opera, 'Le Fille de Madame Angot,' was never more acceptably presented in this city than it was last night at Ford's Grand Opera House. Mrs. Oates, the queen of English bouff opera in this country, was never in bet-ter voice, never in better humor, never in bet-ter form generally. She came on with a dash dashed through her role, went off with a dash From first to last she did not lag, but kept herself and her audience in a whiri. Her Clair-ette lacked all of the indelicate suggestion of the French, but none of its snap and effervesthe French, but none of its snap and efferves-cence. In fact, it is a pleasing leature of Mrs. Oates' repertoire that the original is pruned and sifted so that the bright remains, and the bad is swept away. Mile. Roseau, who made her debut recently in Philadelphia, made a de-cided hit as M'ile Lange. She has a pleasing, well-culifyated mezzo soprano voice, of fair power, and particularly rich in the lower power, and particularly rich in the lower notes. Her stage presence is much in her favor. Besides singing well, Mile. Roseau acts well, and these two qualities are necessary to the bouffe singer who hopes for success. If we mistake not, Mile. Roseau is not new to the stage, though she be a debutante in comic opera. Mr. Drew's Pomponnet was well conceived and creditably executed. We have rarely seen so good a Trenitz as Mr. Maffin. He was all that the role demands. Louchard was made indescribably droll by Mr. Jones, and Mr. Howson's Larivaudiers was fairly done. Mrs. Oates brings with her a better done. Mrs. Oates brings with her a bet chorus than we heard recently under Fren management. The opera was elaborately put on. In stage setting, dressing and general effects it was in every way creditable to the management. There was no grand display of distorted anatomy, and that was a great gain over some bouffe performances we have had in the city.

Merit Recognized.

Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster receive the highest and only reward of merit at the Philadelphia Exposition over all articles o like character, proving by the highest medica authority in the world that they are greatly superior to ordinary porous plasters, and no a patent medicine, as no nostrums were ala patent medicine, as no nostrums were allowed to be exhibited there. Benson's Capcine Porous Plaster is positively the best external remedy ever devised. They relieve pain at once, and cure where other porous plasters only relieve after long use. Over three thousand physicians now recommend their use, and they are sold by druggists everywhere. Price, 25 cents.

Important to Every Househol "Improvement" is the watchword of the hour; its development and redevelopment is the ambition of every true American. Porou plasters were invented in 1845. For thirt years their composition remained unimproved until Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters wer until Benson's Capcine Porous Plasters were invented. They differ from all others in their greater medical activity. They eill cure discuse in a fee hours that other porous plasters, liniments or compounds require days and weeks of continuous wear and use to simply relieve. They are superior to electricity and more powerful. It is not a nostrum. They are indorsed by over three thousand physicians and druggists as meeting a great want; a remedy for external diseases which relieves instantly and cure quicker than any known medicine. Try them and you will not be deceived. Purely vegetable. Price, 25 cents.

CREMATION. A Brooklyn German Who Was Opposed to

Max Henry Stein, of South Second street E. D., died October 19, and left considerable real and personal estate for his widow, Elise and three children, Otto, Adele and Alma. His principal real estate is described in his will, which was executed January 7, 1874, His pri as consisting of a house and lot, located at 142 Douglass street, Omaha, Nebraska, and three five-story basement houses and lots in Fourth street, between Sixth and Seventh streets, E. D. This property, together with all his other real and personal estate, he fleft to his wife real and personal estate, he lieft to his wife during her lifetime, and after her decease to the children already named, "with the exclusion of any relatives or friends whatever." But that which causes his will to attract more than ordinary interest is the following curiously-worded clause:

"Should at the time of my decease, within easy distance from the place where decease will happen, a society be in existence for the sensible and sanitary purpose of and having a suitable apparatus for that purpose, it is my special wish that my body may be disposed of by the said improved method of operation. Otherwise, in consideration that costly or expensive funerals are a humbug, I direct that in case of my decease the funeral expense shall not exceed the sum of eighty dollars all toid, and that no more than four persons shall follow the body as mourners."

The witnesses to the will are George F. Kreuscher and John Neumer, of No. 58 Goerek street, New York, and the document names the widow as executrix. It was admitted to probate on the 14th instant by Surrogate Vecder. Vecder.

Mr. Stein was a native of Germany, and

CITY ITEMS.

There is no person living but what suffers more or less with Lang Disease, Coughs, Colds or Consumption, yet some would die rather than pay seventy-five cents for a bottle of medicine that would cure them. Dr. A. Boschee's German Syrup has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderous cures astonishes every one that try it. If you doubt what we say in print cut this out and take it to your druggist, and get a sample bottle for ten cents and try it, or a regular size for seventy-five cents.

USE TRUESTOR'S IVORY PRARL TOOTE POWDER. A perfect dentifrice. Its action on the teeth is specific, removes tartar and discoloration arrests decay, and keeps them sound, clean and white. It hardens the gums, sweetens the breath, and, containing no seld, canout injure the estamel. Its constant use is recommended to all, but specially to those who, having good teeth, wish to preserve them. Twenty-five and fifty cents par bottle.

TRONFRON'S PENADR OFFICE, for dressing the hair. This fine pomade merits special mention. Purely vegetable, its effect is to soften and refine coarse dry hair, imparting to it gloss and beauty. Unlike many preparations for the hair, it cannot injure, but is nightly ceneficial, equally so to the rich, golden-hued treases of youth, the darker shades of middle life, or the silver-streaked looks of age. Twenty:five and fifty cents per bottle. PRACTICE ECONOMY. Renovate your solied gloves thoroughly and quickly with Jovens' In-odorous Eld Glove Cleaner. Twenty-five cents per bottle.
